BELFAST★ BOOK FESTIVAL

belfastbookfestival.com

The Belfast Book Festival opens up the incredible worlds of literature and the imagination by allowing the best international and local writers to present their work to audiences in the most intimate and personable of settings. The Arts Council's support as principal funder reflects of our confidence in this festival to extend the appeal of all literary genres so that everyone, from the most tentative to the most seasoned of readers, has the opportunity to experience the full and inimitable pleasure of books.

Damian Smyth, Head of Literature and Drama, Arts Council of Northern Ireland

We did it again - this year's programme for the Belfast Book Festival 2017 is so ridiculously good! We have literary nourishment for your mind, body and soul. You may have noticed that the world is in a state of flux, so if you want to escape the turmoil of the planet or if you want space to reflect, then you have to join us for #belfastbook festival 2017. We have drawn talent from across the globe and closer to home, so please take a few minutes to book your festival highlights now. A huge thank you to our funders, sponsors, staff and festival goers - we can only do what we do, because of you.

SKINTOWN

WITH PAUL MCVEIGH

We are delighted to welcome Irish actor and author Ciarán McMenamin to kick off this year's Belfast Book Festival. His energetic, adrenaline-fuelled debut novel, Skintown was published earlier this year and is already receiving rave reviews.

Skintown tells the story of Vinny and his drink and drug-fuelled odyssey through fights, riots, ecstasy, sex and acid house. Reminiscent of Irvine Welsh's Trainspotting and John Niven's Kill Your Friends, Skintown is bristling with a restless energy; this superb debut is a wild ride of a novel.

THE RULE OF THE LAND

WALKING IRELAND'S BORDER BY GARRETT CARR

In the wake of the EU referendum, the UK's border with Ireland has gained greater significance: it is set to become the frontier with the European Union.

Garrett Carr has travelled Ireland's invisible border on foot and by canoe and he reveals the turbulent and rich history of this landscape along with the issues of nationhood, land and power surrounding it in his book The Rule of the Land.

From encounters with border dwellers to uncovering rituals, hidden pathways and ancient monuments, join map maker Garrett as he presents the borderland as a unique realm of its own.

ISLAM, THE ESSENTIALS

We welcome Tariq to the festival for a lecture and Q&A surrounding the ideas presented in his book Islam, The Essentials.

Hardly a day goes by without the mention of Islam. And yet, for most people Islam remains a little-known religion. Whether the issue is violence, terrorism, women's rights or slavery, Muslims are expected to provide answers and to justify what Islam is - or is not. But little opportunity exists, either in the media or in society, to describe Islam: precisely the question this book sets out to answer.

SIOBHAN CAMPBELL
BOOK LAUNCH

We are delighted to have Siobhan Campbell launch her new collection of poems, Heat Signature at this year's book festival.

This intelligent and provocative collection, from the Irish poet, resists rapture and/or easy solutions, it rather glories in difficulty: the cursed, intractable nature of humanity, of a natural world beset with swarming bees, weeds and feral horses. There is a beautiful balance throughout between the forthright and the ironical.

Heat Signature continues her fascination with her homeland in all its incarnations, both ancient and modern.

MY BODY, MY LIFE

REAL STORIES ABOUT ABORTION

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the 1967 Abortion Act: an Act that does not apply to Northern Ireland. Since this act was introduced, tens of thousands of women from Northern Ireland have travelled and paid for abortions in England. Abortions are not rare in Northern Ireland, and across the UK one in three women will have an abortion in their lifetime.

This event presents videos and books telling stories about abortion. These stories are women's own words about their abortions, and remind us that any woman may need an abortion at some point in their lives. These stories show how easy it can be to be pregnant when you don't want to be, and they also show how women may experience very different emotions - relief, ambivalence, sadness, empowerment - as they decide what to do with their lives.

We will also have a space where women can share their own abortion stories if they wish to do so.

THE UNMUMSY MUM DIARY

IN CONVERSATION WITH SARAH TURNER

The Unmumsy Mum, Sarah Turner will share with us a year in her life as a mum, wife, blogger and bestselling author.

The Unmumsy Mum Diary is as honest as it is hilarious. It takes a peek into Sarah's innermost thoughts that will leave you in no doubt that, on those days when you feel you are not quite cut out for the job, you are most definitely not alone. With trademark candour and sense of humour, Sarah documents the good days and the bad days, the giggles and the tantrums.

Sarah Turner lives in Devon with her husband and their two boys. She started writing as The Unmumsy Mum after becoming disillusioned with the other parenting literature she had read online. Everybody seemed to be coping so well. Where were the tales of mums tearing their hair out after yet another sleepless night and endless re-runs of Peppa Pig? She made a vow then and there to document the reality of parenting, and The Unmumsy Mum was born.

EMMA PRESS LAUNCH

Come along to the the launch of two new poetry pamphlets from Emma Press: Pádraig Regan's Who Seemed Alive and Altogether Real and Zosia Kuczyńska's Pisanki.

Regan's pamphlet brings together art history in a way which is playful and inquisitive. Other poems focus on the representation of the human body as they discover responses to paintings.

In 1940, a young girl is taken from her home in Eastern Poland to Siberia; in 1942, she boards a train. 70 years later, that journey is reimagined by her granddaughter, Kuczyńska. Pisanki tells the story of her maternal grandmother, coming to England and confronting some of the big questions of art and history.

THE WEIGHT OF HIM

ETHEL ROHAN
WITH PAUL MCVEIGH

The Weight of Him tells the story of Billy. At 400 pounds, Billy can always count on food. Food has always made everything better, until the day Billy's beloved son Michael takes his own life.

Determined to make a difference in Michael's memory, Billy undertakes a public weight-loss campaign, to raise money for suicide prevention. However, Billy's dramatic crusade appalls his family, who want to simply try to go on.

This is Rohan's first novel and it won the inaugural Plumeri Fellowship and was named an Amazon Best Book.

PAULA MCCRATH AND SOPHIA HILLAN

Join us for an evening of fiction and friction as Paula McGrath and Sophia Hillan present their latest works.

Sophia Hillan's How We Danced explores the gap between memory and desire, reality and illusion, in the search for those things that cannot, in the end, be taken away.

In Paula McGrath's A History of Running Away it's the 1980's and Jasmine wants to box but it's illegal for girls in Ireland. In 2012, a gynaecologist agonises about a job offer which would mean escapism from her Dublin hospital. In Maryland, Ali's mother has died so she hooks up with a biker gang to escape the grandparents she didn't know existed.

HARVESTING A PAPER SWAN

RUTH GILLIGAN & LISA HARDING

Join Jan Carson as she chats with novelists Ruth Gilligan and Lisa Harding about their dark and redemptive new novels and their lives in writing.

Nine Folds Make a Paper Swan is Ruth's fourth novel, and was inspired by the history of the Jewish community in Ireland. With 3 intertwining narrative strands, it is a novel about immigration, diaspora, storytelling and what it means to truly belong.

Harvesting is Lisa's first novel and is heartbreaking, funny, gritty and breathtakingly beautiful, evoking a world where redemption is found in friendship and unexpected acts of kindness. As two girls are thrown together in a Dublin brothel in a horrific twist of fate, a peculiar and important bond is formed...

WHAT WOULD BEYONCÉ DO?

LUISA OMIELAN
IN CONVERSATION WITH SARAH FIRBY

You know when you find yourself approaching 30 and your dreams are broken? You've got a temping career going nowhere, a student debt that's mounting and you've just had to move back into your mum's house. Then, to top it all off, you get absolutely annihilated with heartbreak because of an ex, who is just 'not ready' but then manages to be ready, a week later, with someone else.

And it is here, at your lowest point, that one of your best friends decides to remind you that you are the same age as Beyoncé.

FML.

The Belfast Book Festival is ridiculously excited to welcome the brilliant stand-up comedian and author Luisa Omielan. Hilariously funny, wonderfully uplifting and brutally honest, Luisa's memoir shows us all that there is no situation in which Bey can't save the day. She chats with Sarah Firby about how you turn your life around by answering the one mantra every person needs in their life: What Would Beyoncé Do?

MAIRTÍN CRAWFORD AWARD & THE LAUNCH OF NO ENEMY BUT TIME

THE POETRY OF MAIRTÍN CRAWFORD & NAOMI FOYLE

This momentous event will reveal the winner of the first ever Belfast Book Festival Mairtín Crawford Award.

Mairtín Crawford died on Sunday 11th of January, 2004. For 8 years, Mairtín worked as a part time creative writing tutor at the Crescent Arts Centre and it is this period that many of those who read his work and followed his work regard as the most promising period of his career. This award pays tribute to Mairtín.

Organised in conjunction with Moyra Donaldson and in association with the Irish Writers Centre, this Award will be an inaugural event.

Join us for this special event in which the editor of Mairtín's posthumously published Selected Poems, Naomi Foyle, will launch her poetry pamphlet, No Enemy But Time, and the friends and literary colleagues of Mairtín gather to celebrate and read selections from Mairtín's own work.

SPACE ODYSSEYS

WITH NAOMI FOYLE & JO ZEBEDEE

George Orwell, Ray Bradbury and even Margaret Atwood turned to the genre of science fiction when the reality of the world they lived in proved too lacklustre a place to home some of their most iconic and thought-provoking characters and stories.

Sci-Fi can ask questions other genres cannot; will human principles and sentiments change or endure in a far-flung future? Is it only a matter of time before an AI-operated super-computer takes over the world by building an army of indestructible super-robots with the intention of crushing humanity beneath their alloy feet?

Join authors Naomi Foyle and Jo Zebedee as they discuss these and many other questions surrounding Sci-Fi writing and read from their own forays into literature's arguably most loved and most read genre.

ANOTHER DAY IN THE DEATH OF AMERICA

GARY YOUNGE
IN CONVERSATION WITH ELIZABETH NELSON GORMAN

On 23 November 2013, 10 children were shot dead. They fell in suburbs, hamlets and ghettos. None made the national news. It was just another day in the death of America, where on average 7 children and teens are killed by guns daily.

Editor-at-large at The Guardian, Gary Younge picked this day at random, searched for their families and told their stories. What emerges is a sobering, searing, portrait of youth and guns in contemporary America.

This is a book, which will lead the news agenda on publication and will leave the reader knocked sideways by its emotional power.

THE STRANGE DEATH OF EUROPE

DOUGLAS MURRAY
WITH DANIEL JEWESBURY

The Strange Death of Europe is a highly personal account of a continent and culture caught in the act of suicide. Declining birth-rates, mass immigration and cultivated self-distrust and self-hatred have come together to make Europeans unable to argue for themselves and incapable of resisting their own comprehensive change as a society.

Told from this first-hand perspective, and backed with impressive research and evidence, the book addresses the disappointing failure of multiculturalism, Angela Merkel's U-turn on migration, the lack of repatriation and the Western fixation on guilt. Murray travels to Berlin, Paris, Scandinavia, Lampedusa and Greece to uncover the malaise at the very heart of European culture and to hear the stories of those who have arrived in Europe from far away.

Douglas Murray is Associate Editor of The Spectator and writes frequently for a variety of other publications. In conversation with Daniel Jewesbury, Murray will discuss the bigger issues which lie behind our continent's death-wish, answering the question of why anyone, let alone an entire civilization, would do this to themselves?

OSCAR WILDE'S THE NIGHTINGALE AND THE ROSE

LONDON'S WILL BUTTERWORTH QUARTET
FEATURING ACTOR ADAM TURNS

Will Butterworth has written a suite of original music inspired by the Oscar Wilde story The Nightingale and the Rose. The suite employs beautiful melodies and rich and dark harmony to retell Wilde's story of love and sacrifice, and comes to a dramatic crescendo as the final song of the nightingale is performed. The group uses these melodies as starting points for improvisation, and the result is riveting and exhilarating music making.

Originally this music was composed as solo piano music for a story book, but it has grown into a fully formed, dynamic jazz suite. The evening begins with a performance of the short story, featuring local actor Adam Turns.
